Now, in view of this fact, I am in favor of compulsory education. When parents are so bestial as to neglect this duty to the child, I say the law, with a strong hand, at the same time with a gentle hand, ought to lead these little ones into the light of intelligence and good morals. It was a beautiful tableau when in our city a swarthy policeman having picked up a lost child in the street, was found ppeasing its cries with a stick of candy he had bought at the apple-stand. That was well done and beautifully done.

the bread of knowledge and intelligence. Shall we not give it to them? The officers of the law ought to go down into the cellars, and up into the garrets, and bring out these benighted little ones, and put them under educational influences; after they have passed through the bath and under the comb, put b fore them the spelling-book and teach them to read the Lord's Prayer and the Sermon on the Mount. Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven. Our city ought to be father and mother pendent upon good water. The time and want and crime of our city, I give fortune. He is the friend of the Church
